This book is a must read investment for anyone who is thinking about suing! Andrew Thelander, a former litigation lawyer now a prize-winning ethicist, introduces you to ancient and modern wisdom on the rights and wrongs of going to court. The Buddha, Confucius, Jesus they all had something to say on this issue. In plain language, the author explains why our litigious society is still a hot topic today. Is your lawsuit ethical? This book will help you answer that question, once and for all!

About the Author Andrew Thelander was a litigation lawyer in Australia for close to ten years. He has a Master of Arts degree in Professional Ethics and Governance and won the Griffith Award for Academic Excellence in 2002. He is a writer of both fiction and non-fiction books and a blog on litigation ethics: shouldisue.blogspot.com.au
