Being part of a management committee of a community-based early education and care service can sometimes be overwhelming, with so many responsibilities and issues for members to be aware of. This book is here to help! The essential part of working within a management committee of an early education and care service is to have the passion for ensuring your service offers great care and education to children, an interest in the good management of the service, the ability to listen, the ability to be fair and the time to be involved! So Now You Are On The Committee outlines what a management committee actually does, and provides an easy-to-read guide for all those wishing to become a member, or for those already acting in this role. Its a must-read publication for management committees and a handy reference for directors, educators and students.
