tell you exactly "how" but covers all bases, bringing business and Law together. Some of us who are a little older have been closers in sales and have been in business for ourselves. Solo practice is where I'm heading age 40, hands down. But it doesn't mean a 25yr old law grad who just passed the bar can't do it either. Book is very motivating. Don't need to beg anyone to hire you for a pittance or do what "they" tell you, if you're disciplined and hardworking. GREAT READING!!!0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. but it does provide some good advice about your attitude and expectations when starting outBy N. S. HancockDefinitely not a guide to setting up a law practice, but it does provide some good advice about your attitude and expectations when starting out. Plus, it's a quick read.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Good and Inspiring ReadBy Drew ClarkI enjoyed this e-book because it gave a good sense of the hopes and fears that accompanied the decision to start your own law firm. It gave me quite a few ideas about how I will translate its teachings into the work that I am doing and that I aim to be doing in my entrepreneurial journey.

There are plenty of books out there about the practical aspects of opening a law practice. This book is different. Solo out of Law School is a book for both law students thinking about a solo career and attorneys looking to open their own firms. It's about mindset, motivation, and viewing your solo career with perspective that allows you to see yourself and your work as something you can be proud of. It's not a "how to" guide to starting a law practice. It doesn't say anything about the tools you'll need or whether to open a brick and mortar office. Rather, it's a "how can" guide to developing the mental toughness and right mindset to succeed as a solo attorney. It's a collection of little lessons and simple reminders for when your choice to go solo in the first place come into doubt. Solo out of Law School is about finding the strength and motivation to keep pushing. By embracing the words on its pages, my hope is that you'll realize, no matter how much you doubt yourself or second-guess your actions, you are good enough to be successful as your own boss.

About the AuthorMichael Brennan (University of the Pacific, McGeorge, JD 10, University of Wisconsin-Madison, B.A. 07) is a solo practitioner currently residing in Illinois. He operates a virtual law office serving clients throughout Illinois, Minnesota and Wisconsin. His practice focuses on estate planning and legal issues commonly seen in the entrepreneurial and small business realm. Michael started The Virtual Attorney with little more than a dream and a computer. He learned how to operate a law firm by simply doing it. He hopes that, by sharing his story and the lessons he learned along the way, he can provide others with the tools they need to realize they too can make their dreams of working for themselves a reality.
