(Twenty Answered Questions) (Volume 2):

Whether you're an invincible healthy young woman in her mid-20s, or a 50-something-year-old entrepreneur on your third big venture, or a person considering how your life will change long after retirement, you probably don't relish the thought of taking time out of your busy life to contemplate what will happen to you when you become unwell and when you die. This is normal; it's human nature to want to avoid these kinds of conversations. But, Planning is essential. Your life is fluid, and things change from one minute, day, or year, to the next. A key truth I learned over the years is that you can prepare reasonably well for what you see coming ... the harder part is preparing for what you don't anticipate. So, let this book help you think about some of the aspects of estate planning ... whether for you, or your family, estate planning at some level is important for everyone.

About the Author Mr. Douglas E. Koenig is a graduate of Dartmouth College and the Michigan State University College of Law. After a successful career in engineering and information technology, he retired from the Ford Motor Company. Mr. Koenig established an Elder Law practice in Durham, North Carolina. He assists people in planning for aging and transition and helps families avoid the devastatingly high costs of long term care. Mr. Koenig was selected as a Top Attorney in North America for the 2015-16 edition of Who's Who.
