Stuart Minor Benjamin, James B. Speta : Telecommunications Law and Policy, Fourth Edition before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Telecommunications Law and Policy, Fourth Edition:

This book engages in advanced analysis of the key administrative, constitutional, and economic issues that arise in the various telecommunications settings. The fourth edition has been revised to reflect the increasing importance of broadband and its regulation. The book contains discussions and excerpts from legal materials to help readers understand current controversies, regulatory strategies, and the historical developments that led to them. The authors have streamlined much of the older material, to present key materials concisely and effectively. Summaries and previews at the start of each set of readings help students know what to read for, and questions at the end of each set encourage students to think critically about those materials. The organization easily permits the selection of material for courses focused only on particular industries or only on particular types of regulation.

About the Author Stuart Minor Benjamin is a Douglas B. Maggs Professor of Law at Duke University School of Law. James Speta is a Professor of Law at Northwestern University School of Law.
