pull out your wallet and pay a few bucks for a decent attorney. Otherwise you are going to be tempted to traverse the legal jungle on your own. Sort of like a non-medical person trying to take out their own appendix. Don't do it!! Hire a lawyer and sleep well at night. 3 of 3 people found the following review helpful. Helps to "Appreciate the Complexity" : Law is not a DIY, By Dendrite This is a compilation of topics by a large number of health care lawyers. Each section is "peer reviewed" by another attorney for accuracy. Definitely not a "How To Do it Yourself" book. In fact this is the chief message of the book: doctors tend to be overconfident of our skill, and health care law is a complex field in which even general practice attorneys often stumble. Just as we should not operate on ourselves, we should not assume expertise in corporate organization, asset protection, labor or contracting. I found this book to be an excellent reference. Pricey, but the advice (and listing of names and office location of good attorneys in the field) might save you untold amounts of money by avoiding "The Biggest Legal Mistakes Physicians Make" 8 of 8 people found the following review helpful. Very little substance By Dr. T.C. This book contains many topics important to physicians. However the substance for each topic is minimal. It does give some helpful tips for dealing with each topic it covers, but will certainly not be good as a sole reference on any of the topics. The question and answer format is difficult for me to follow. I would recommend getting books specific to the topics you need, as you would likely get more for your money.
