adversary at one point, and David was so good at what he did, the guy HE was after hired David!! Known as one of the best in the business, David Cook went after and continues to go after OJ Simpson on behalf of the Ron Goldman family. The book is filled with insight in collections but also has some great stories about how to collect money. It also gives you the end game of what you are looking at when you say " I will sue you". Once you get that judgement, it is not so easy to always collect. Great for business people, entrepreneurs, and those in the world of collecting money. Great read, very educational, no nonsense real life stories.

Winning your case in court is only half the battle. It's a fact that some people hide their assets to avoid paying debts and judgments. This truly unique book will show you how to find and reach that hidden money. Author David J. Cook is a veteran collections attorney who has been chasing down debtors for over 39 years. This colorfully written book will teach you the basics of civil remedies, real estate, finance, and sleuthing. The author outlines for you the power of the bluff and the outer parameters of threat, when a threat becomes extortion, and when you need to walk away from a situation. This book is about collecting debts, finding assets, enforcing judgments against difficult people, or, should you be so inclined, beating out your creditors.

About the Author David J. Cook has a law practice in San Francisco, CA, where he specializes in collections and creditor rights. He is well known for representing Ronald Goldman's father in collecting the multi-million dollar civil judgment against O.J. Simpson.
