

(Read now) The International Criminal Court and Africa: One Decade On

The International Criminal Court and Africa: One Decade On

From Intersentia
audiobook / *ebooks / Download PDF / ePub / DOC

Evelyn A. Ankumah (ed.)

The International Criminal Court and Africa

One Decade On

 Download

 Read Online

#3601594 in Books 2016-09-05 Original language: English 9.60 x 1.50 x 6.40l, #File Name: 1780684177676 pages | File size: 29.Mb

From Intersentia : The International Criminal Court and Africa: One Decade On before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The International Criminal Court and Africa: One Decade On:

More than ten years ago the International Criminal Court (ICC) was established as a universal court meant to achieve criminal justice worldwide. That goal still stands, but so far the Court has dedicated most of its time and resources to African conflicts in which international crimes (may) have been committed. While the ICC can be said to contribute to criminal justice in Africa, it cannot be denied that the relationship between the Court and the continent has been troublesome. The ICC has been accused of targeting Africa, and many African states do not seem willing to cooperate with the Court. Debates on Africa and international criminal justice are increasingly politicized. The authors of this volume recognize the current problems and criticism. Yet they do not side with populist pessimists who, after just over a decade of ICC experiences, conclude that the Court and international criminal justice are doomed to fail. Rather, the contributors believe there is a future for international criminal justice, including the ICC. The contributors use their unique specific knowledge, expertise, and experiences as the basis for reflections on the current problems and possible paths for improvement, both when it comes to the ICC as such, and its specific relationship with Africa. [Subject: Criminal Law, African Law, International Law]

About the Author Evelyn Ankumah is the Founder and Executive Director of Africa Legal Aid (AFLA). She is the author of The African Commission on Human and Peoples Rights: Practice and Procedures, which is the first monograph on the African human rights system. Originally published by Kluwer Law International in 1996, the book was later published in French and Arabic. She is also the editor of the AFLA Quarterly, with more than 40 issues to date and the AFLA's Book Series with four volumes to date. Ms Ankumah has authored a forthcoming memoir, Hague Girls.