Adam McBeth, Justine Nolan, Simon Rice : The International Law of Human Rights before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The International Law of Human Rights:

The International Law of Human Rights provides a comprehensive overview of the concepts and theories of human rights, the institutions, instruments and implementation structures for protecting human rights, and the contemporary challenges of human rights law. Author commentary and examples illuminate a range of primary and secondary materials to rigorously cover the breadth of human rights law in a way that is interesting and engaging for all readers.

The authors of The International Law of Human Rights have not re-imagined the tradition of international human rights law teaching, but have written into that tradition a distinctive and refreshing accent can likely to be comprehensible across a diversity of comparative contexts. * Fleur Johns, Human Rights Law *About the Author Adam McBeth is the Deputy Director of the Castan Centre for Human Rights Law and a Lecturer within the Faculty of Law at Monash University. Justine Nolan is a Senior Lecturer, within the Faculty of Law at the University of New South Wales.
