Randy Stapilus : Upstream: Adjudicating the Snake River Basin before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Upstream: Adjudicating the Snake River Basin:

The Snake River Basin Adjudication may be the largest stream adjudication the United States has ever seen. It has also been one of the most successful, heading toward conclusion within a generation of its launch, far faster than most. This book, drawn from the pages of more than 16 years of the monthly Snake River Basin Adjudication Digest, shows how it happened—conflicts, settlements, false starts, and unexpected leaps.

About the Author RANDY STAPILUS has been editor and publisher of the SRBA Digest since it started publication in 1993. As an Idaho newspaper reporter, he covered the Swan Falls battles in the early 80s that resulted in the adjudication.
