I read it out of curiosity about the moral issues, but then I found myself having to make decisions about a parent and a sibling at the end of their lives. It was such a tremendous help to have thought these things out in advance from a Biblical perspective. I am so glad in retrospect that I didn't have to look back and feel guilty about making an end of life decision I later regretted. If you are considering things like Living Wills, this will help you write one in a way consistent with the Christian faith that you hold. If you ever have to make decisions for someone else, this book will serve as a great guide. Highly recommended!
