In the back of my mind, I knew that there were so many things that need to be addressed when someone dies.Digital Assets are now a primary concern, and no one has any idea of what to do, or how to do it properly - BEFORE you need to know !THAT is the key. Having the knowledge and proper preparation is essential, if you have assets that you only reference digitally needs to be a HUGE concern - immediately.I see that I have MUCH to do, to bring our digital lives/assets into compliance. We have both worked hard, and to have a chunk of that benefit lost, simply because we were unaware of the step to take - is unacceptable.Kathleen Lane has obviously done deep research into the rights that we sign away, and the consequences of our ignorance in times of death and bereavement. It is clear that we each and everyone of us - needs to take steps immediately to begin to get our digital assets in order, so that those for whom we have worked so hard, WILL be the beneficiaries of our work - not the courts or the government... SIMPLY because we were unaware of the steps to take. Kathleen Lane gives examples and resources as well as a digital workbook to complete, that will save heartache for those who are left behind to deal with this new problem caused by our non-paper world. I have a pressing urgency in my chest to get this done right away. You should too. It's a scary situation to leave behind assets for those who need them, and they are denied Access, simply because we "didn't know what to do".
